

EYEJ amplifies youth voices for those that are silent. eyej.org

Mission:

EYEJ: Empowering Youth, Exploring Justice empowers and amplifies the voices of teens and pre-teens by bridging them with diverse individuals to engage in interactive discussions centered around social justice.

EYEJ believes social justice means equality and opportunity for all. We believe a commitment to social justice requires us to value our collective diversity and commit to challenging injustice while simultaneously advocating on behalf of those who have the least.

EYEJ has served over 1,500 underserved youth through it's Discussion Series, EYEJ Impact 25 Youth Council, Change Summits, Y.O.D.J.: Youth Online Discussing Justice, DiscussSocialJustice and All-Star Reading Program.

History

Due to the death and ruling of Trayvon Martin, and through discussion and civil discourse, several Plymouth Church, UCC members including Mai Moore and June Antoine quickly gathered Plymouth Church members together as they knew that youth deserved and needed support to be empowered in August, 2013. Founder: Mai Moore, with her background and success in the tech industry understanding the balance between taking personal risk, speed, business, creating impact and results and community was necessary to help to amplify youth voices. <http://eyej.org/our-story/>

Title: Analytics, Data and Strategy Volunteer (IMPACT) Non-Profit

Purpose:

To improve the quality and availability of data related to social-emotional development and pathways through programming in alignment with EYEJ's goals and strategic initiatives.

Term:

4-6 Months. 5-10 hours a week.

Qualifications:

- 5+ years of experience with data, business process and data analysis for a non-profit
- Social-Emotional Development data and impact experience is preferred
- Demonstrated ability to identify sources, assemble, and organize large, complex data sets for which subsequent quantitative and qualitative analyses is desired
- Meticulous of details, and a keen eye to sales materials i.e. detail oriented
-
- Excellent and professional English writing skills, great communicator
- Experience with proven methods for non-profits for funding
- Ability to create a plan and implement along with review of history, resources available
- Unwavering commitment to quality programming and data-driven program evaluation
- Comfortable in Start-Up organization
- Salesforce experience a plus but not necessary
- Strong critical thinking skills
- Master's Degree is a plus
- Virtual ok

Duties:

- General understanding of the the EYEJ brand, the programs, mission and vision
- Will create a updated updated logic model and change theory for all programming and then drilling down to each program
- Participate on evaluation research, gather and analyze program data. Assist in writing reports that evaluate results and recommend action
- Track program progress along a timeline in relation to other benchmarks.
- Ability to have overall view of mission, vision and look at the target/goals for each program
- Analyze data from a top view down to create major impact points of programming
- Researches new techniques, ideas, and tools that could help improve a more desirable result for this project

To apply: please email volunteer@eyej.org with your Cover Letter, Resume/Bio, any questions and if applicable samples of your work. EYEJ will respond to you and set up a time to speak to discuss the role further.

